Re: Nondiscrimination in Health and Health Education Programs and Activities, Final Rule (RIN 0945-AA11)

Dear Secretary Azar and Mr. Severino:

On behalf of The Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights and the 278 undersigned organizations, we urge you, at a minimum, to suspend the issuance of this harmful final rule during the current COVID-19 national emergency, the growing economic recession, and increasing rates of unemployment.

The nation is now facing an unprecedented public health crisis that has cost over 90,000 lives.¹ While the death toll continues to rise, COVID-19 has strained our medical systems and essential workers, shuttered much of our economy, and is widely expected by public health experts to last for months to come.

We cannot imagine a more inappropriate and irresponsible time to publish a final rule that encourages discrimination and deprives patients of critical information about their rights and access to care. Already, people of color have been disproportionately affected by COVID-19.

¹ "Cases in the US." CDC. May 19, 2020. <https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/cases-updates/cases-in-us.html>.

Latino and Black residents in New York City, for example, are dying at twice the rate of their white peers.² LGBT people, particularly LGBT people of color, are also uniquely vulnerable at this time. Additionally, the pandemic has caused a rise in racist harassment and hate crimes against Asian Americans, further instilling fear when seeking care free from discrimination. This rule would inappropriately authorize the denial of medical care — including testing and treatment for COVID-19 — to some populations at greatest risk from this deadly virus and worsen health disparities. That’s why this proposal was opposed by the nation’s leading associations of medical and mental health professionals, even before the current crisis.

As proposed by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, this rule would falsely tell hospitals and health plans that they could:

- Refuse testing or treatment because a patient is transgender or doesn’t conform to sex stereotypes.
- Refuse testing or treatment because a patient has had an abortion.
- Refuse testing or treatment to patients based on a provider or staff member’s personal beliefs.
- Refuse testing or treatment based on sexual orientation, even in programs that have banned such discrimination since the G.W. Bush administration.
- Incorporate discriminatory plan benefit designs that eliminate/limit coverage critical to people with disabilities or preexisting conditions and place certain kinds of treatments needed by people with specific disabilities on the most expensive copay tiers.
- No longer notify patients of their right to receive information in their primary language.
- No longer notify patients of their right to file a grievance if they’re mistreated.

In addition to the potential for the substance of the rule to exacerbate the current crisis, there are several procedural reasons why publishing a final rule during this ever-evolving crisis is inappropriate and irresponsible.

First, the conditions of this crisis make it impossible for many critical stakeholders to engage in the Office of Management and Budget’s public input process, as required by Executive Order 12866.

Second, these conditions make it impossible for health care entities to familiarize themselves with implementing this sweeping rule change, which would alter dozens of provisions of the current rule and create unnecessary burdens. The rapidly evolving nature of the pandemic also makes it impossible to determine appropriate effective dates for any rule changes at this time.

Third, pending Supreme Court decisions on the scope of federal sex discrimination laws and challenges to the Affordable Care Act also make it unwise to issue a final rule at this time. These rulings could potentially have major implications for the scope and legality of the final rule. HHS should await these rulings and thoroughly consider their implications before pressing forward with a final rule.

² Crear-Perry, Joia and McAfee, Michael. “To Protect Black Americans from the Worst Impacts of COVID-19, Release Comprehensive Racial Data.” Scientific American. April 24, 2020. <https://blogs.scientificamerican.com/voices/to-protect-black-americans-from-the-worst-impacts-of-covid-19-release-comprehensive-racial-data/>.

For all these reasons, we urge you not to move forward with this final rule. At a minimum, this rulemaking process should be suspended until at least 90 days after the termination of the current COVID-19 Public Health Emergency declared by Secretary Azar on January 31, and after a large majority of states are no longer subject to stay-at-home orders and closure of non-essential businesses.

HHS has called COVID-19 “an emergency of unprecedented magnitude.” So far, the administration has failed to take the necessary steps to make testing, contact tracing, personal protective equipment, and other critical supplies available to save lives. We urge you to devote the full attention of your administration to this crisis and to suspend non-emergency rulemaking — especially rules such as this one that could exacerbate the pandemic. If you have any questions, please contact Emily Chatterjee, senior policy counsel, at chatterjee@civilrights.org.
