Promote Women's Equity on Campus

- AAUW's salary negotiation workshops train students and recent graduates on how to negotiate the starting salaries they deserve. College/university member schools receive discounted pricing.
- Get access to AAUW's latest research on women's issues in education, leadership, and more.

Enjoy Membership Perks and Discounts

- Your campus will gain institutional visibility as a supporter of gender equity.
- Two faculty or staff members receive free AAUW national memberships. These representatives serve as the liaisons between AAUW and your campus.
- All undergraduate students can become AAUW student members for free, and each student will receive a graduation gift of a free full membership to AAUW for one year.
- Receive cost-saving discounts on NCCWSL registration and exhibition at the Graduate School Fair, salary negotiation workshops, and posting on AAUW's career center.
- Students, faculty, and staff from AAUW college/university member schools receive an advantage on their applications for AAUW's annual grants and leadership programs.

Create Community on Campus

- AAUW has more than 100 campus-based student organizations all over the world.
- Students, faculty, and staff can find networking and mentorship opportunities through AAUW's 800+ college/university members and 170,000+ AAUW members and supporters.

Strengthen Your Staff and Students' Professional Development

- AAUW's annual National Conference for College Women Student Leaders (NCCWSL) is an unparalleled opportunity for students, faculty, and staff to hone skills in leadership, professional development, and networking.
- Faculty and staff can enhance their CVs through serving on AAUW fellowship review panels, as well as presenting at AAUW branch and national conferences.

Fund Your Staff and Students' Education and Activism

- Students, faculty, and staff can apply for AAUW fellowships and grants, ranging from $750 to $30,000 each year for gender-equity projects and graduate study. AAUW awards about $3.7 million annually.
